1. The first part of the report is a general description of the project. It includes the title, the objectives, and the scope of the work. The title is "A Study of the Effect of Temperature on the Rate of Reaction of Hydrogen Peroxide with Potassium Iodide". The objectives are to determine the effect of temperature on the rate of reaction and to determine the activation energy of the reaction. The scope of the work is limited to the reaction of hydrogen peroxide with potassium iodide in aqueous solution.

2. The second part of the report is a description of the experimental procedure. It includes the materials and apparatus used, the method of preparation of the solutions, and the method of measurement of the rate of reaction. The materials and apparatus used are hydrogen peroxide, potassium iodide, sulfuric acid, and a water bath. The method of preparation of the solutions is described in detail. The method of measurement of the rate of reaction is described in detail.

3. The third part of the report is a description of the results of the experiment. It includes a table of the data obtained, a graph of the rate of reaction versus temperature, and a calculation of the activation energy. The data obtained are as follows:

Temperature (°C)	Rate of Reaction (mol/l.s)
20	0.0012
30	0.0025
40	0.0050
50	0.0100

The graph of the rate of reaction versus temperature is shown in Figure 1. The activation energy of the reaction is calculated to be 50 kJ/mol.

4. The fourth part of the report is a discussion of the results. It includes a comparison of the results with those of other workers, a discussion of the factors which affect the rate of reaction, and a conclusion. The results of this experiment are in good agreement with those of other workers. The factors which affect the rate of reaction are temperature, concentration, and the presence of a catalyst. The conclusion is that the rate of reaction increases with increasing temperature and increasing concentration, and is increased by the presence of a catalyst.
